

John Longman President & Founder

John Longman has more than 30 years consulting experience in the design and construction industry and is considered a leader in the field of acoustical engineering. Specializing in the design of large scale and complex developments throughout the US and abroad, he is knowledgeable in architectural acoustics and building equipment and systems. All of the preeminent law firms consider John their preferred acoustician. Before founding Longman Lindsey, John was the president of another New York based consultancy.

Given the importance of acoustics to any design for a project's performance and impact, John provides fully integrated solutions that satisfy functional, practical, and aesthetic concerns. John's understanding of architectural design and his technical knowledge of acoustical engineering combine to produce appropriate, attractive design solutions that consider energy efficiency, economy of construction, and ease of maintenance.
