

Patricia Scanlon, LEED AP, BD+C

Founding Partner

Patricia Scanlon is a founding partner at Longman Lindsey and an accomplished acoustical engineer with more than 25 years of experience. Prior to Longman Lindsey, Patricia was principal-in-charge of a 20 person acoustical department at another New York based consultancy.

Patricia has a passion for proper acoustics in schools, which has led her to be a lecturer interpreting LEED for Schools and ANSI standards on acoustics to educators, designers, and the construction industry. She is an advisor to the New York City School Construction Authority on acoustic standards and has lectured at a joint conference of the Acoustical Society of America and the European Acoustics Association on classroom acoustics, as well as at Greenbuild, the world's largest conference committed to green building.
