

Deloitte – Stamford

Architect: HOK

Client: Deloitte

Completion: 2014

Deloitte occupies its “next generation workplace” in the BLT Financial Centre in Stamford, Connecticut. The 120,000 SF workplace includes open plan, private, and executive offices, as well as divisible conference rooms and ancillary spaces.

We began the project by benchmarking and surveying Deloitte’s acoustical requirements and applying them to the fit-out design. We then analyzed space details that may have acoustical anomalies and proposed recommendations to address these conditions.

Modernizing the workplace included redesigning the conference rooms to be divisible from one large room to two smaller rooms. Whether a one or two room configuration is used, the space was designed to achieve privacy without distractions from other rooms.

We provided additional acoustical consulting as needed so that the project was a dynamic, fresh, and collaborative space that strengthened the Deloitte’s culture and brand and facilitated their desire for an increased collaborative work environment.
